HUSTAI NATIONAL PARK DAY TRIP

Tour quick view

This exciting day trip offers a close encounter with Mongolia's wild heart. Just a short drive west of Ulaanbaatar, Hustai National Park is home to the world's last remaining truly wild horses—the Takhi (Przewalski's horses)—successfully reintroduced after near extinction. Upon arrival, explore the park's information center to learn about its wildlife, ecosystems, and the history of the Takhi. Then head into the reserve, where you'll have the chance to spot these rare horses roaming freely, along with marmots, red deer, gazelles, and various bird species. The peaceful steppe scenery and close-up wildlife viewing make this trip a perfect escape from the city. Enjoy time for short hikes, photography, and appreciating the untouched landscape before returning to Ulaanbaatar in the evening. This day trip is ideal for nature lovers, wildlife enthusiasts, and anyone wanting to experience Mongolia's wild beauty in a single memorable day.

HUSTAI NATIONAL PARK DAY TRIP

Depart Ulaanbaatar after breakfast and drive west (about 2 hours) to Khustain Nuruu National Park. Upon arrival, stop at the visitor center to learn about the park's wildlife, ecology, and the successful reintroduction of the wild Takhi horses — once extinct in the wild. Continue into the park for a wildlife viewing excursion, where you may spot Takhi horses, red deer, Marmots, and a variety of bird species against the backdrop of rolling steppe and forested hills.

Lunch:

Enjoy a picnic lunch or meal at a local ger camp near the park.

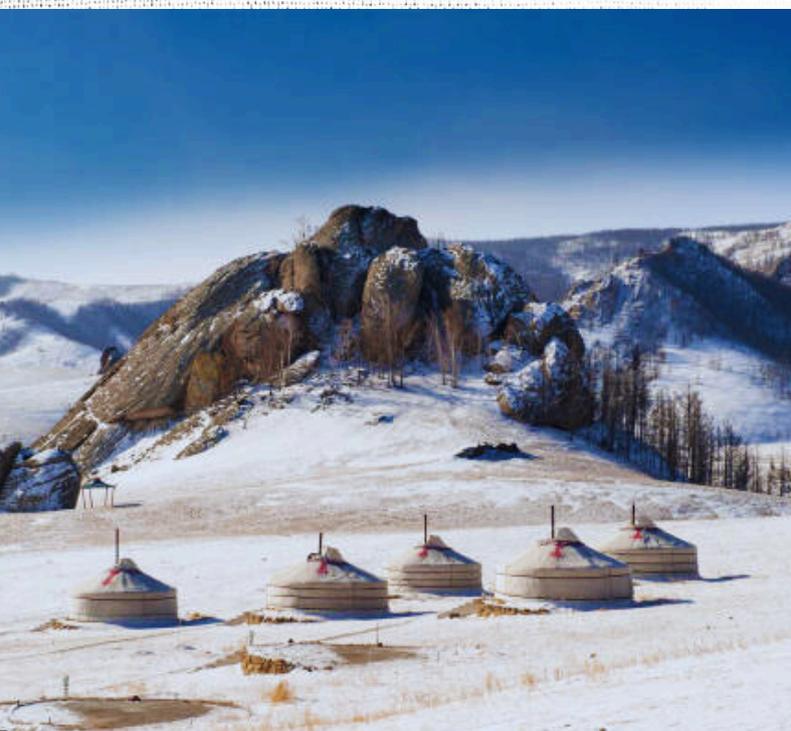

Afternoon:

Take a short hike through the park's scenic valleys and grasslands, enjoying panoramic views and the tranquility of Mongolia's wilderness. Learn about ongoing conservation projects and the cultural importance of this protected area.

Evening:

Drive back to Ulaanbaatar, arriving in the early evening.

This day trip is ideal for nature lovers, wildlife enthusiasts, and anyone wanting to experience Mongolia's wild beauty in a single memorable day.
